Biography

Calum joined Lloyds PR as a Crown Court caseworker in August 2023. He assists senior solicitors and barristers in the preparation of their cases. This has included working on one of the rare prosecutions under the Official Secrets Act 1911, historic sexual offence cases and a murder case.

Calum also handles his own caseload covering an array of offences. He acts for clients charged with serious sexual offences (including rape allegations involving children), serious violent offences, largescale cross-county drugs supply (including multi-handed prosecutions), armed robbery, driving offences, fraud, among others.

Aside from litigation work, Calum is frequently instructed to carry out analysis of complex and extensive phone and call data evidence, particularly in sexual offence and drugs supply matters.

Prior to joining Lloyds PR, Calum worked as a judicial assistant in the chambers of Judge Xuereb at the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU), where he was involved in numerous preliminary ruling reference cases. He also assisted in the administration of international commercial arbitrations during his time as a caseworker at the London Court of International Arbitration (LCIA). Calum brings his cross-jurisdictional experience of crime to the firm, having previously worked in the chambers of HMJ Talwant Singh at the High Court of Delhi in India.

Calum completed an LLM as a Wright Rogers Scholar, during which he specialised in international criminal law and international h
